Abstract

English has gained immense importance in recent times and has become an important part of our lives. With the growing importance of English, the responsibility of teachers who teach the language has also increased and changed considerably from conventional teaching methods of the language. However, there are many challenges that ELT faces in India today. I have tried to analyze some problems faced by teachers who teach English at the undergraduate level. While teachers should be given autonomous powers to design the syllabus according to the needs of the students of their college, they should also keep themselves up breast of the latest developments in the subject. English language teaching should not be merely theory lectures but it should be made interesting and practical for the students. The paper also offers remedies to the problems where possible.
